“Confidence built on experience: A4F - Gold Sponsor at AlgaeEurope 2021”

A4F is a biotech company focused on the development and operation of industrial scale algae facilities, with a strong track record of R&D and Innovation projects.

A4F designs, builds, operates and transfers technological solutions and systems for the industrial production and biorefining of algae, selecting the technologies which better adapt to their Customers’ business.

The company has established a unique methodology which includes scaling-up from prototypes in their Experimental Unit, to commercial-scale facilities, and develops SOPs for optimized algae production, according to production goals, promoting integration with local industrial processes and using the industry’s best practices. They have a long track record of working with leading national and international academic research groups in algae biotechnology, as well as with some of the largest microalgae producers, worldwide.
