Press Release

Seagriculture World 2026 to Debut in Bangkok, Thailand: 19 - 21 May 2026

The inaugural Seagriculture World conference will take place in Bangkok, Thailand, from 19 - 21 May 2026. Strategically located as the gateway to Asia - the world's leading region for seaweed production - Bangkok offers the ideal setting to bring together international stakeholders for collaboration, innovation and growth across the entire seaweed value chain.

Industry professionals from around the world are invited to save the date as preparations are underway for what promises to be a global gathering in the heart of one of the most dynamic seaweed-producing regions.

DLG Benelux, the organizer of the Seagriculture conferences, recently announced the merger of Seagriculture USA and Seagriculture Asia-Pacific into a single, consolidated event: Seagriculture World. This strategic move reflects the organization's aim to simplify the seaweed industry's event calendar, strengthen global collaboration, and support innovation around the world.

"Bringing Seagriculture World to Bangkok allows us to position the event at the heart of global seaweed activity," said the organizing team at DLG Benelux. "Asia accounts for the majority of seaweed cultivation, making it the perfect location to host a truly international event."

A Three-Day Program Showcasing the Global Seaweed Landscape

Seagriculture World 2026 will feature a comprehensive three-day program designed to engage, educate, and connect key players across the seaweed value chain:

- 19 May 2026 – Site Visits: The event opens with field visits to local seaweed operations and innovative projects, offering first-hand insights into the region's industry and sustainability practices.
- 20–21 May 2026 – Conference & Trade Show: Attendees will enjoy two days of:
 - Expert-led conference sessions covering scientific, commercial, and regulatory developments
 - A vibrant trade exhibition highlighting the latest technologies, equipment, and services
 - Poster presentations showcasing current research and breakthroughs
 - Structured networking events to encourage global partnerships and idea exchange

A Must-Attend Global Gathering for the Seaweed Sector

With more than 500 participants annually, the Seagriculture conferences have grown into one of the leading global platforms for the seaweed industry. The audience includes a diverse mix of farmers, processors, investors, technology providers, researchers, buyers, and policymakers, all focused on advancing the potential of seaweed as a sustainable, innovative resource.

Mark your calendars now – and stay tuned for upcoming announcements on speakers, the full program, registration, and sponsorship opportunities.
