

Two partners – One Concept

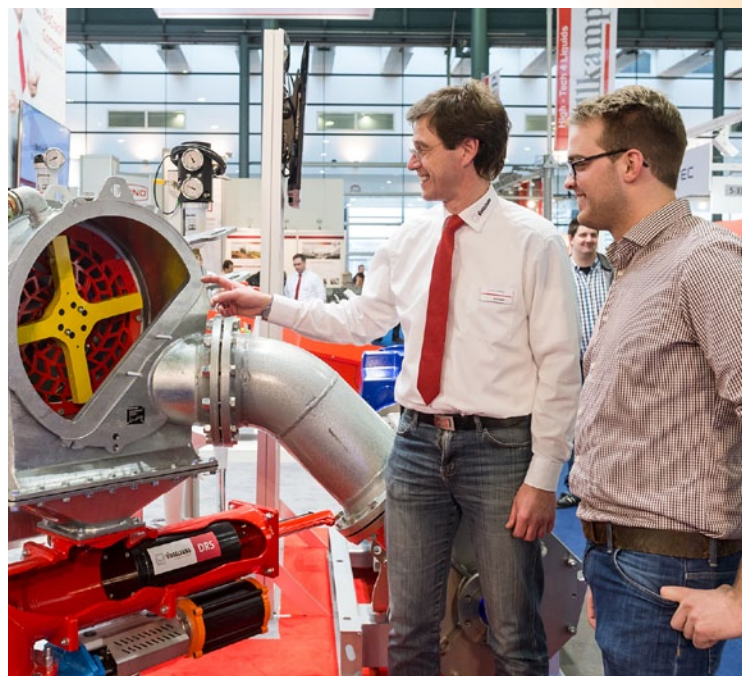

NEW!

BIOGAS Convention & Trade Fair

Energy
Decentral

International trade fair for innovative energy supply

The future in focus!

The market situation changed with the EEG 2014 – it requires a pro-active approach.
To meet the challenges of the market, the Biogas Exhibitions also must change.

Benefits for ## exhibitors

- A world leading exhibition for biogas every year.
- Synergy effects for the dual event EnergyDecentral / BIOGAS Convention & Trade Fair.
- Focus of all exhibition and marketing activities on one event.
- Cost saving without loss of presence for customers and partners.
- Long-term planning security by two fixed venues in Germany: Hanover + Nuremberg.

The Biogas Association and the DLG have decided to write a new chapter from 2016 onwards. They offer a high-quality international event that can be planned ahead for a long time. For that, both organizations will bundle their market competence, merge their strengths and take action together as strong partners in the interest of the biogas sector.

Fair visitors

- The world's largest specialized biogas exhibition alternating as the EnergyDecentral and the BIOGAS Convention & Trade Fair.
- All manufacturers and service providers of the sector gather at one place.
- Latest innovations and trends.
- The whole value-added chain of sustainable energy generation.
- Hanover and Nuremberg – always easy to reach.

Convention participants

- Over 1,200 participants.
- Top-level speakers from research, technology, law, safety and other areas.
- More than 80 partly international talks and workshops, panel discussions, excursions and an evening event.
- Business contacts can be used and expanded systematically.
- Special combination of technical conference and specialized exhibition.

Two strong partners:

With more than 4,900 members, the German Biogas Association is the largest German and European body representing the interests of the biogas sector. It represents manufacturers of biogas plants and components, planners and agricultural and industrial biogas plant owners throughout Germany. The object of the association's work is to enlarge the production and use of biogas for the nationwide generation of electricity and heat and fuel production, to strengthen the industrial location Germany and to develop an effective climate protection.

The DLG e.V. (Deutsche Landwirtschafts-Gesellschaft – German Agricultural Society) was founded by the engineer and writer Max Eyth in 1985. It has a membership of more than 26,000 and is a leading organization of the agri-food sector. As specialist organization, the DLG is open for everyone and independent politically; it perceives itself as a neutral, open form for the exchange of know-how and opinion-forming. The DLG thinks and acts along international lines. It maintains a constant exchange of knowledge with international experts and other specialized organizations throughout the world.

The promotion of progress in science and technology is the basis and describes the self-conception of the DLG. The projects and activities of the DLG define set new benchmarks and provide impetus for progress.
